

help starts with one call

Address urgent needs today for a better tomorrow.

When you don't know where to turn, 2-1-1 answers. Through United Way of Northwest Georgia, 2-1-1 connects people in crisis to real help and real hope. Whether someone needs food, childcare, rent assistance, elder care, or safety from domestic violence, every call is answered by a trained Resource Navigator ready to listen and guide them forward. Behind every call is a person facing uncertainty – a parent struggling to keep the lights on, a family navigating crisis, or someone searching for safety and support. In those moments, people need more than information. They need someone who cares. Because of support like yours, this free, confidential lifeline remains available for families across Northwest Georgia when they need it most.

You make this work possible.
